Executive Summary

In 2012, Parks & Trails New York launched the Erie Canalway Trail End-to-End program with support from the New York State Canal Corporation. In the first year of the program, 917 registrants were recognized as Erie Canalway Trail End-to-Enders.

To date, there are 1398 End-to-End program registrants. Since the 2012 report, 481 End-to-Enders have registered for the program. Of these 481 registrants, 66 persons (14%) registered using the online form accessed from the PTNY website. The names of others were entered by PTNY from the roster of riders of the 2013 Cycling the Erie Canal bike tour (CTEC). Eleven of the 66 persons who registered online had taken part in the 2013 Cycling the Erie Canal bike tour.

The Erie Canalway Trail End-to-End program provides registrants with inclusion in the End-to-End Honor Roll on PTNY's website, individual certificates of recognition and an Erie Canalway Trail End-to-End decal. As the application form includes multiple questions about the End-to-End and their journey, the program also helps to define the individuals who choose to experience all 361 miles of the Erie Canalway Trail. Most of the 481 persons registered for the End-to-End program in 2013 reside in the United States. Forty percent (40%) of the registrants live in New York State while an additional 26% live in a state or Canadian province that borders New York. The 2013 End-to-Enders range in age from 4 to 83 years old, with an average age of 52 and a median age of 56. All of the 2013 End-to-Enders completed the trip by bicycle.

Word of mouth was the way that 31% of the 2013 End-to-Enders first heard about the Erie Canalway Trail. The next most popular communication channel was from a previous bike tour participant at 17%. Of the 59 End to Enders that reported their per-day spending, 62% spent more than $100 per day. Twenty-seven percent (27%) spent more than $200 per day, while 25% spent $100 to $149 per day. Twenty percent (20%) reported spending $50 to $99 per day. Ten percent (10%) reported spent $150 to $199 per day and 10% reported spending under $49 per day.

Of the 54 persons who completed the trail separate from CTEC, half (50%) spent seven nights or more along the trail.

When asked what they enjoyed most about the trip, End-to-Enders commented on the charming small towns, beautiful countryside, history, and the feeling of accomplishment. One rider commented that they liked "Learning about the history of the canals and towns and villages along the way. The camaraderie of friends was great as this was an exciting adventure for us."

Better signage, more paved trail, and completion of existing gaps were the most often cited suggestions for improvement.

The comments received in 2013 generally are similar as those from the 2012 End to End registrants.

I. Background on the End-to-End program

It is not known how many individuals traverse the entire length of the 361-mile Canalway Trail each year or complete the full mileage over several years, but, at a minimum, each summer more than 500 cyclists take part in the Cycling the Erie Canal (CTEC) bicycle tour riding from Buffalo to Albany. In order to recognize persons completing the full mileage of the Erie Canalway Trail from Buffalo to Albany, Parks & Trails New York (PTNY), the New York State Canal Corporation, and the Erie Canalway National Heritage Corridor decided to establish an Erie Canalway Trail End-to-End program.

In 2012, Parks & Trails New York launched the Erie Canalway Trail End-to-End program with support from the NYS Canal Corporation. PTNY developed the End-to-End Honor Roll, a certificate of recognition and an Erie Canalway Trail End-to-End decal; designed an online registration system; and promoted the program in various publications.

II. Registration

In 2012, Parks & Trails New York added a new section to its website to describe the End-to-End program and offer a portal through which Erie Canalway Trail visitors can register to be recognized as an Erie Canalway Trail End-to-End. The program was also promoted on the “Planning a Journey” section of the PTNY website. These web pages are attached to the report as Appendix A.

To date, the End-to-End program has generated 1,398 registrants. Sixty-six, (14%), of the registrants used the online registration form. The remaining registrants were entered into the system from the roster of riders that completed the entire 2013 CTEC bike tour. Care was taken not to include riders from the 2013 tour that had previously registered for the End-to-End program, either by being added from the 2011 or 2012 tours, or by registering individually.

A. Duplicate Entries

Upon analyzing the data for the 2013 report, it was discovered that 13 duplicate entries were made in the 2012 report. Duplicate entries require a great deal of “sleuth work” to discover and eliminate. For example, a registrant that had listed their name as “Edward J.” one year and “Ed” the next. To confirm the instance of a duplicate entry or a minor with the same name, age, address, and email have been used as unique identifiers, although these can sometimes change between tours.

B. WuFoo Registration

In the spring of 2013, PTNY migrated the registration form questions from a PDF fill-in form to an online service, WuFoo.com. This resulted in a smoother registration process and provided the applicant with instant feedback. Before the Wufoo form, only 17 registrants used the PDF registration. To date, 66 people have used the WuFoo form.

Registration Process

1. An applicant fills out the online form (Appendix F).
2. Upon completion of the form, the applicant clicks “Submit.”
3. The applicant is taken to a confirmation page (Appendix G) with a link to the certificate of recognition. Registrants can then open and print the certificate themselves. PTNY staff is working on a way to automatically add the registrant’s name to the certificate.
4. The user-supplied data that is collected is automatically inserted into a database managed by WuFoo.
5. This database, accessible by any one from any work station, is downloaded, de-duped, and added to the master database in an Excel spreadsheet. From the master database the program administrator can produce a form letter and envelope to mail the recipient a congratulations letter (Appendix B) and decal (Appendix D).

III. Promotion

PTNY has continued to promote the End-to-End program in a variety of ways:

- In the April 2013 and September 2013 issues of Parks & Trails Enews (13,400 readers) (Appendix J), winter 2011-2012 edition of PTNY’s semi-annual newsletter, Greenspace (11,400 distribution) (Appendix L), Canalway Trail Times summer ’11 and summer ’13 Newsletters (Appendix L) (1,500 distribution), and the electronic newsletter produced by the Western Erie Canal Alliance.
- On PTNY’s Facebook page (5,474 likes) and Twitter (2,137 followers).
- In the letter from PTNY that accompanies all Cycling the Erie Canal guidebook purchases. The letter promotes the program and invites the buyer to apply if and when they complete a ride of the entire Erie Canalway Trail. (Appendix O)
- Parks & Trails New York Blog post on September 13th congratulating our 1000th End-to-Enders. (62 followers)

IV. Analysis of the End-to-End Program Registrants

The online registration form generates a significant amount of data that is not collected from the bike tour registration form, thus we obtain more complete information from those who register online as End-to-Enders than from bike tour participants whose names we enter into the End-to-End roster. Also, all information from non-bike tour End-to-End registrants is self-reported, while some of the data from bike tour participants, registered by PTNY, is inferred (overnights and mode of travel, for example).

A. About the 481 End-to-Enders added during 2013

The 481 persons that completed their End-to-End journey as part of PTNY’s annual CTEC ride did so in July. The majority (74%) of End-To-End registrants that made the journey on their own completed it in July, August, or September.

Month you completed your tour

Where are they from?

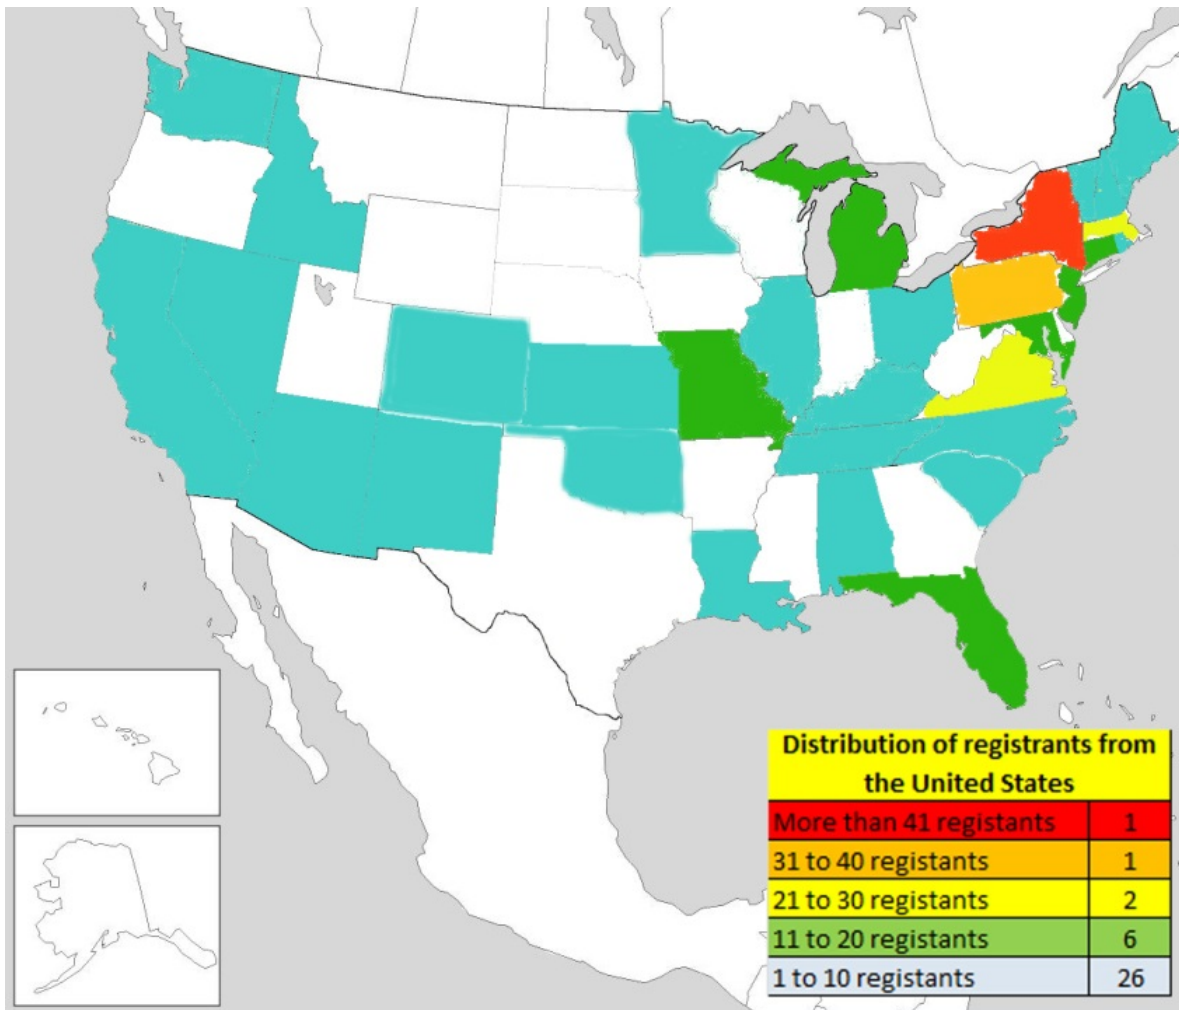

End to Enders represent three foreign countries and 36 US states. Forty percent (46%) of all the US registrants reside in New York State. Twenty six percent (26%) of all registrants are from states or Canadian provinces that border New York.

The 2013 percentage of registrants from the United States (95%) matches exactly the American registrant percentage of 2012. For 2013, the number of registrants from neighboring states and provinces increased from last year by 8%.

A full breakdown of the representation by state is provided in Appendix N.

Where are you from?

How old they?

The youngest End-to-End registered in 2013 was four years old (a participant on the CTEC ride). The oldest was 83. The average age was 52 and the median age was 56.

The 2013 breakdown of ages by distribution and participation is similar to the 2012 data.

Age range by distribution

Age by participation

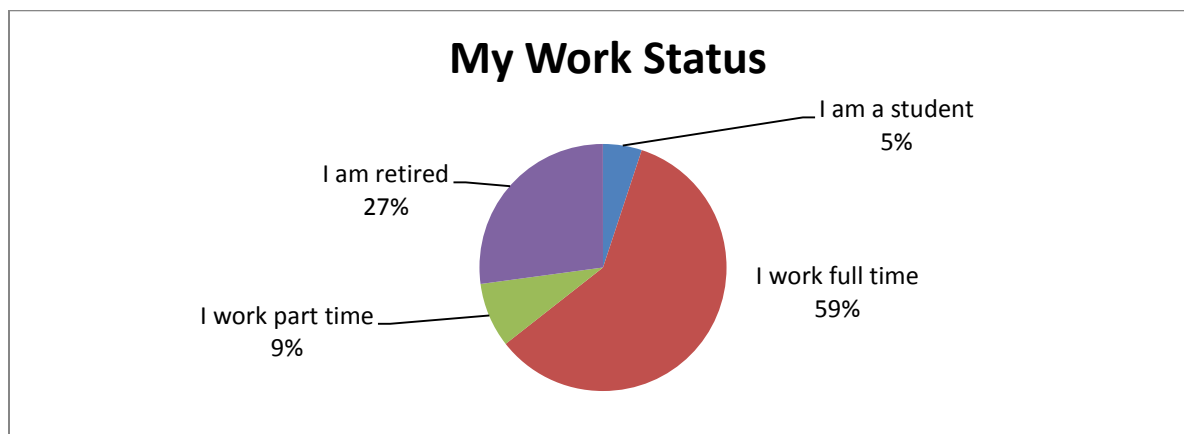

Approximate annual household income

This question was added to the WuFoo form and thus the data was not available for the previous report. Forty-two registrants reported income data. Twenty four percent (24%) reported a household income of $75,000 to $100,000.

Current work status

This question was added to the WuFoo form and thus the data was not available for the previous report. More than half of all respondents, 59%, work full time. Twenty-seven percent (27%) are retired.

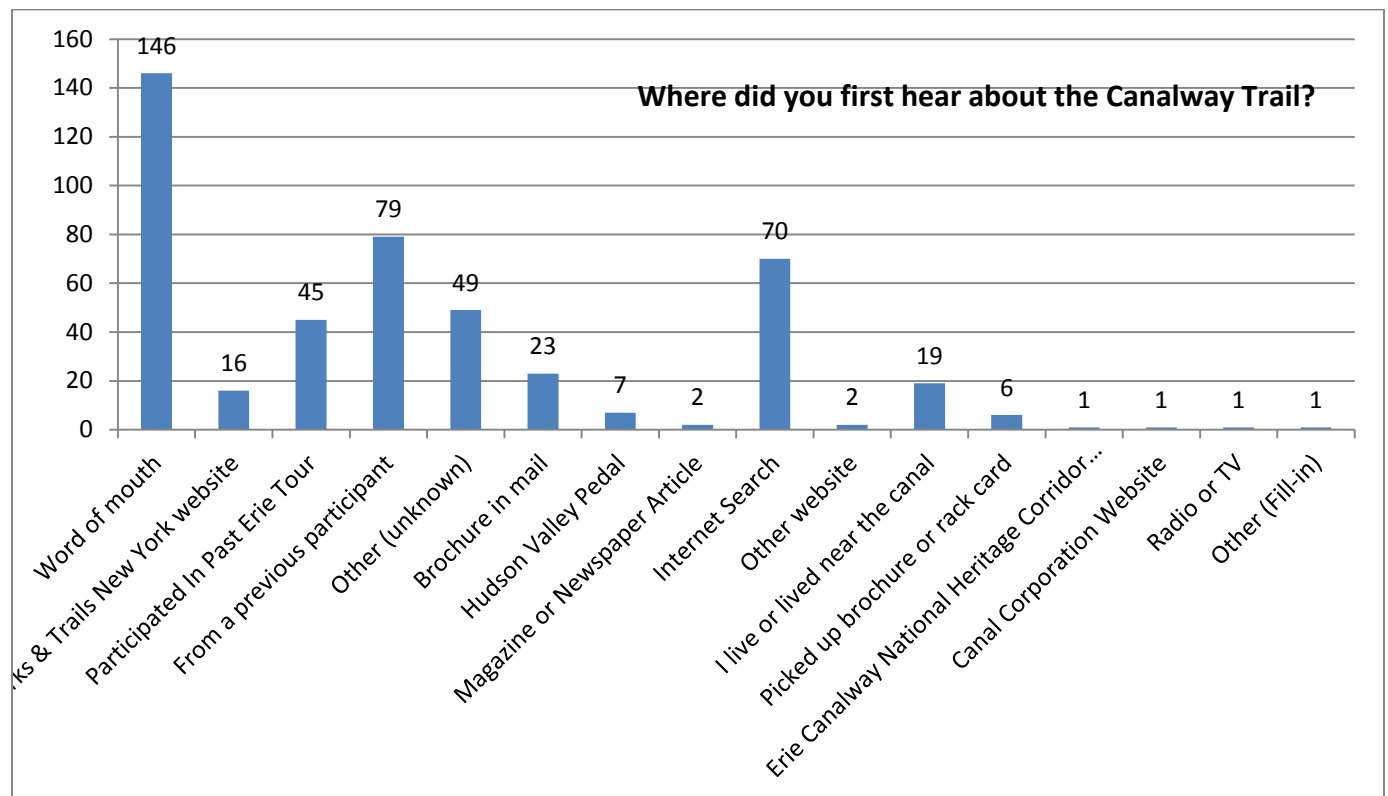

How did you first hear about the Erie Canalway Trail or Cycling the Erie Canal Bike Tour?

“Word of mouth” and “From a previous participant” accounted for 48% of the way in which registrants hear about the Canalway Trail.

The option “internet search” was added to the Wufoo form in 2013 because a high number of 2012 registrants listed “internet search” or a similar answer in the “other” fill-in area of the registration form.

We believe that because “internet search” was not an option on the 2012 survey, a high percentage of registrants selected “Parks & Trails Website” but had actually found our site from a web search.

What mode did you utilize to complete your journey?

All registrants report having completed the journey by bicycle.

Did you complete your journey as a through trip or in stages?

Most of our registrants, 98%, completed the Canalway Trail in a “through trip.” All of the CTEC riders complete the trail in eight days.

Of the 55 registrants that reported completing the trail on their own, not as part of CTEC, 78% did so as a through trip. Twenty percent (20%) of registrants in 2012 made the journey in stages.

How many were in your group?

Of the 55 registrants that traveled the length of the Erie Canalway Trail independent of Parks & Trails New York’s Cycling the Erie Canal tour, half completed their journey in groups of two.

Half, (50%) of the 2012 registrants also completed the trail traveling in pairs.

Non CTEC: How did you travel?

What was your primary reason for visiting the Erie Canalway Trail?

This question was added to the WuFoo form and thus this data was not available from the previous report. Sixty-three percent (63%) visited the trail so because they were a cycling enthusiast or for the physical challenge of riding a long distance trail. History and camaraderie were each reported as primary reasons for 14% of registrants. Only 6% and 2% cited “scenery” and “small towns,” respectively, for reasons to visit yet in the open-ended comments a majority of registrants report scenery and small towns as being the best parts of the journey.

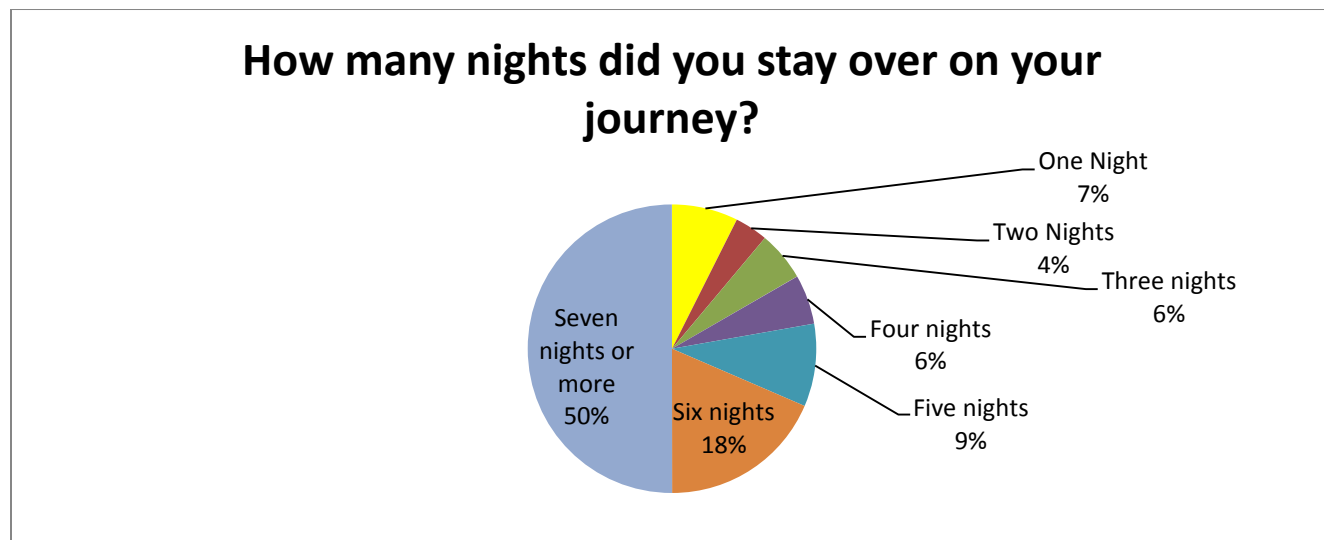

What was your primary reason for visiting the Erie Canalway Trail?

How many nights did you stay along/near the trail on your tour?

PTNY’s annual Cycling the Erie Canal bicycle tour starts on a Saturday with registration, a reception, and an orientation. Nearly all of the registrants, with a rare exception, complete CTEC during the course of the standard eight nights of the tour. Of the 55 non-CTEC registrants that filled out the WuFoo registration form, 54 registrants answered this question. Half of the registrants reported staying seven nights or more.

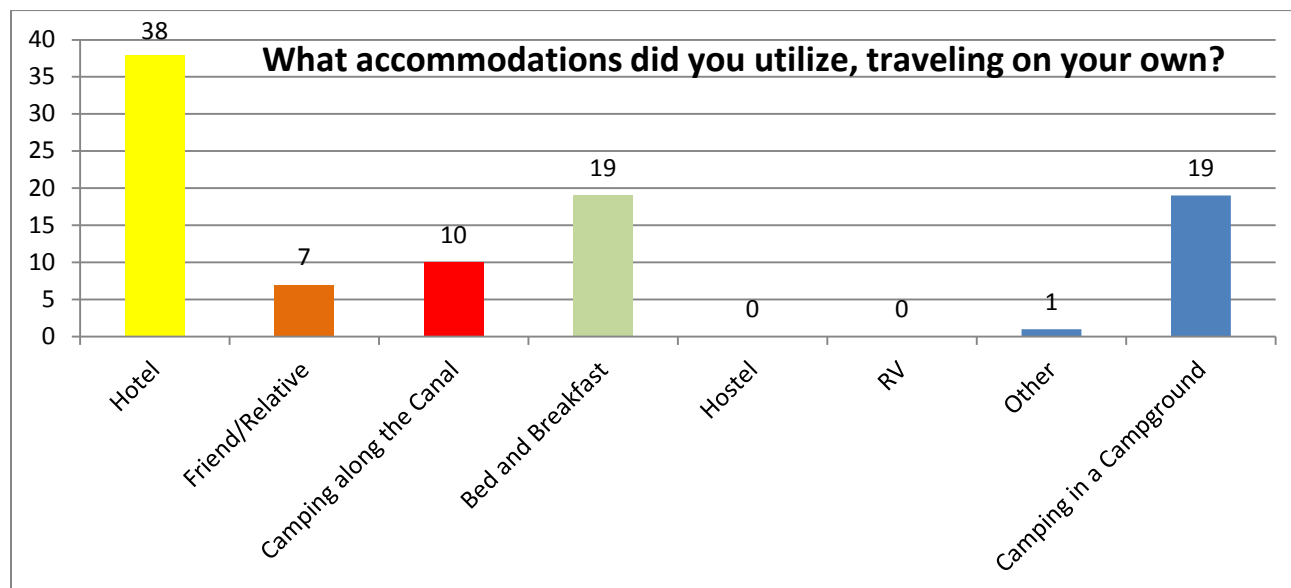

The registrant data from 2013 aligns similarly with the data collected in the 2012 report, with most respondents reporting stays of seven nights or more.

“What accommodations did you utilize, traveling on your own?” (check all that apply)

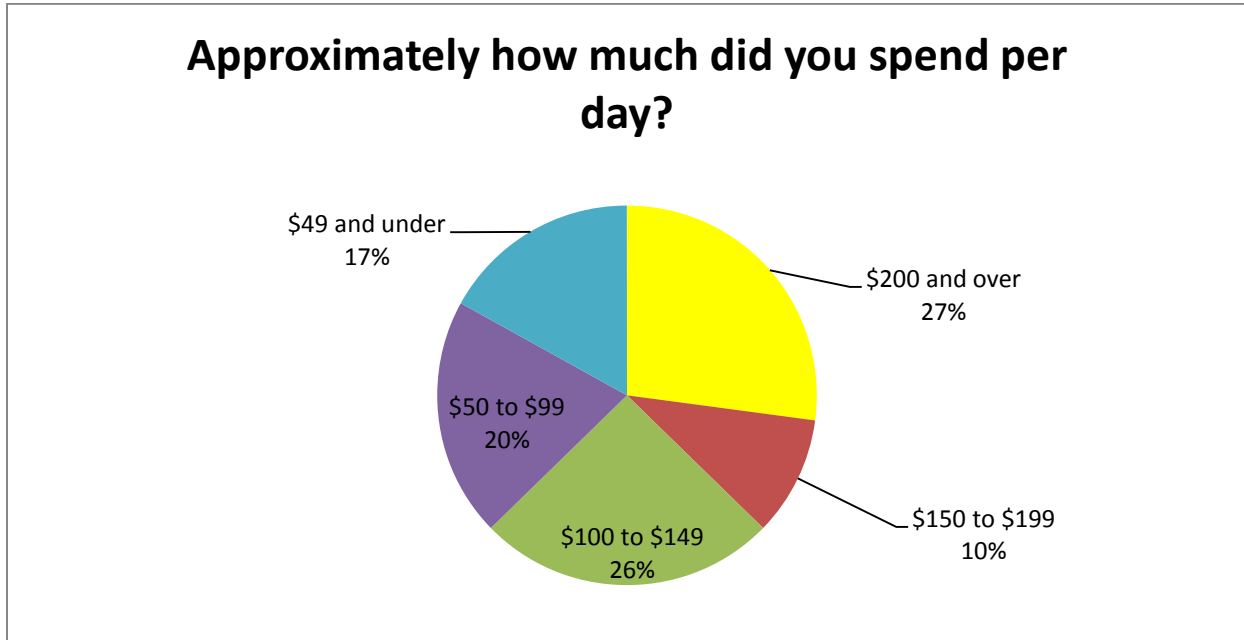

The most popular option for staying overnight was a hotel. Campgrounds and B&B’s were also popular choices.

The overnight accommodations for the 2013 registrants match up with the reported accommodations from the 2012 report. However, in the 2012 report a higher number of registrants reported utilizing campgrounds. This may be due to the 2012 report including CTEC registrants that list the overnights as “campgrounds.” The CTEC riders are not part of this report’s chart.

Approximately how much did you spend in total (lodging, food, souvenirs, museums, transportation, etc.) per day?

Fifty-nine of the 66 Wufoo form registrants answered this question. Sixty three percent (63%) of registrants spent more than $100 per day on the tour.

Per day spending by each End-to-End ranges from a low of $10.00 to a high of $800. The average per day expenditure was $137.35. In the 2012 report the average spending was $90.20.

The $800 per day reported spending by one participant appears to be an outlier. The average daily spending without it was $126.33

Of those that reported their daily spending, the average nights per stay were 6.57. Rudimentary calculation of the nights per trip multiplied by spending per day (without the outlier) works out to an average of $830 spent per person, per week on a typical End-to-End trip. The 2012 report estimated the average per trip spending at $608 per person.

Did you use any of these resources during your journey? (Check all that apply)

The PTNY guidebook, website, and interactive site were the most popular sources of information.

The option “interactive map” was not included on 2012’s PDF registration form or the CTEC registration form.

PTNY also asked three open-ended questions. Answers to open-ended questions are contained in Appendix O.

What did you enjoy most about your journey? This can be a specific activity, such as visiting a particular community or attraction, or more general.

Sixty of the 66 of the Wufoo registration respondents, (91%), answered this open-ended question.

What suggestions do you have for improving the trail experience (trail conditions, signage, services, etc.)?

Fifty seven of the 66 Wufoo registration respondents, (86%), answered this open-ended question.

Do you have any other comments?

Forty of the 66 Wufoo respondents, (61%), answered this question.

Significantly higher percentages of respondents used the fill-in portion of the Wufoo form than the previous PDF form employed in 2012 (73%, 58% and 41% respectively). This is likely due to the fact that the WuFoo form is easier to fill out and submit for program registrants.

All raw data for this report can be found in Appendix N.

Congratulations, you're an Erie Canalway End-to-Enders! You are now a part of a small, but exclusive group of people who have made the journey across the state along the historic Erie Canalway Trail.

Traversing all 360 miles of the Canalway Trail is no small feat, and for that you should be proud. To help you celebrate we have enclosed a commemorative decal.

As you think back over your journey, we would love to hear about it. Please feel free to send us stories of your trip, post your photos to our Flickr account, or tell us how we can improve the Canalway Trail experience in the future.

Sincerely,

Robin Dropkin

Appendix H: Registration How-to

Updating the End-to-End program

1. On the first of each month, Go to WuFoo.com and export the registration database
2. Save this database into the End-to-End folder with the date in the file name. Delete those names that have already been imported into the master list (to avoid duplication). Save this file. Use this database to mail merge the Certificate to email participants their registration forms and mail them their decals.
3. Paste the new entries since the last export into the MASTER database.
4. The database should populate the honor role form on the far right
5. Print the Honor Roll pages that are populated as a PDF, then save the pdf to the website over the former honor roll.

Frank J. Ludovico Sculpture Trail

Located along the Cayuga-Seneca Canal across from the Women's Rights National Historical Park in the Village of Seneca Falls, the Frank J. Ludovico Sculpture Trail proves a trail can combine recreation, history, nature, and art.

The 1.75-mile rail trail is named for the local businessman who developed as either a multi-use or hiking trail.

Several years ago a rail with trail feasibility study suggested the possibility of a side by side facility along the entire ROW, a concept supported by CMRR. Parks & Trails New York and many other organizations feel that the rail with trail option would be difficult and extremely expensive to achieve along the entire corridor due to physical constraints such as steep slopes and several bridge crossings and the high cost to engineer and construct new accessible trail at several locations. PTNY also believes that developing the complete rail with trail option, which might include on-road sections, will not attract the number of users and tourism dollars as the continuous rail trail only option. Read more in our letter to the County Legislature.

The U&D line was identified by the Kingston Land Trust's trails committee as one of several potential rail trail connections into the City of Kingston. Parks & Trails New York is currently working with the Kingston Land Trust to develop multiple trail connections to and within Kingston through our Healthy Trails Healthy People program.

The Kingston Land Trust Rail Trail Committee is organizing a cleanup of the Kingston Point Rail Trail as part of Kingston Clean Sweep presented by the Friends of Historic Kingston and Kingston Parks and Recreation Department on Saturday, April 20 at 9am. Volunteers are asked to meet in the parking lot behind Rondout Savings Bank, 300 Broadway, in Kingston at 8:30am to sign-in.

Local parkland under siege

As a recent New York Times article pointed out, parkland in New York is under siege (Tennis Association Seeks Parkland, and Gets a Fight). Flushing Meadows Corona Park started as a 1,000-acre park but development has chipped away at the land available to the public so now there are just over 300 acres open to the public.

The problem of park alienation, however, is not unique to Flushing. Parkland across New York State is at risk, particularly in urban areas where land is scarce.

In New York, the courts have held that park alienation requires permission from the State Legislature. While oftentimes the legislation includes provisions for replacement parkland or the dedication of funds for parks, the process is inconsistent.

PTNY Director of Programs and Policy Fran Gotcsik facilitated a discussion on attracting resources at the DASH Community Partnerships to End Obesity Disparities conference.

Farewell and best wishes to PTNY staff member Eli Yearick

This month we say good-bye to our friend and colleague PTNY Project Coordinator Eli Yearick who is moving to Harrisburg, PA to become a Transportation Planner for the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission.

In his time at PTNY, Eli has done much to help create and promote our state's many trails, especially the Canalway Trail. Most notably, Eli has helped grow the Canal Clean Sweep into a major statewide event with more than 2,000 participants.

Cycling the Erie Canal riders tell Governor Cuomo: Close the Gaps

PTNY recently delivered several hundred post cards to Governor Cuomo asking for his support in closing the gaps in the Erie Canalway Trail. The cards were signed by participants in PTNY's Cycling the Erie Canal bike tour - people who know firsthand how important a fully complete, off-road trail can be to a safe and enjoyable riding experience.

Presently, 277 miles of trail are complete - only 84 miles are unfinished. Of those 84 miles, another 14 are either being designed or under construction, leaving about 70 miles that must be developed.

When finished the Erie Canalway Trail will be the LONGEST intra-state multi-use trail in the nation. With the cachet of the world renowned Erie Canal, the trail is destined to become a first class international tourism destination, but it cannot achieve that greatness and the communities along the trail cannot reap the full economic benefit unless it is complete. You too can let the Governor know the value of closing the gaps - every voice counts.

Congratulations to our thousandth Erie Canalway Trail End-to-Ender

William and Nancy Moses of Midland Park, New Jersey made the most of their summer by bicycling from Niagara Falls to Albany along the Erie Canalway Trail and then through Hudson Valley all the way home! They used their 13-day, 560-mile trip at the end of June to train for their fourth Pennsylvania Perimeter Ride Against Cancer in July in honor of their son Jason, a cancer survivor.

William, who is retired and bicycles every day, came across the Canalway Trail when looking online for bicycle trails.

William and Nancy set out on their Trek hybrid bikes, complete with gear in their rear panniers, stopping in small towns along the trail, eating at local restaurants, and staying in area hotels. What the pair most enjoyed about their trip was the people they met. For achieving the milestone of becoming our thousandth registered End-to-Ender, the Moses family will receive an LL Bean gift card.

Congratulations Bill and Nancy!

Have you traveled the length of the Erie Canalway Trail? If so, register as an End-to-Ender today!

BRINGING NATURE CLOSER TO HOME – FOR ALL NEW YORKERS

Working with communities to build trails close to home

Three trail projects have been selected to receive assistance from PTNY as part of its Healthy Trails, Healthy People program, which is funded in part from the Healthy Heart Program of the NYS Department of Health. The projects are:

- Genesee Valley Greenway, Allegany County — to encourage usage and volunteer support for a newly completed one-mile section of Genesee Valley Greenway in the Village of Cuba.
- Montezuma Heritage Park Erie Canal Towpath Trail, Cayuga County — to help the Town of Montezuma create and promote a network of trails linking the hamlet with the Seneca River and several historic Erie Canal sites.
- Andes Trails, Delaware County — to create a five-mile trail linking the Village of Andes to the Pepacton Reservoir.

PTNY staff provides help with technical issues, planning, public outreach, grant writing, fundraising, programming and organizational development to these communities.

More than 39 communities have benefitted from PTNY's assistance through its Healthy Trails, Healthy People program. When all the trail projects are completed, almost 270 miles of new multi-use trail will be open to the public.

Bringing together Park and Historic Site Friends around the state

PTNY staff members met with more than 125 park and historic site enthusiasts, representing 34 Friends groups, at three meetings held across the state in October. The meetings were held at some of our state park system's gems: Planting Fields Arboretum State Historic Park on Long Island, the Taconic Regional Headquarters in Staatsburg (a LEED Platinum-certified building), and Letchworth State Park in the Genesee Valley.

The gatherings — organized by PTNY and the Alliance for NYS Parks, in cooperation with State Parks and the State Council on Parks — were an opportunity for park enthusiasts to share information about working more collaboratively to protect and promote our park system.

PTNY Executive Director Robin Dropkin addresses a group of park and historic site Friends at one of three regional meetings held around the state this fall.

Green Briefs

Why support state parks in tough times?

PTNY gave a presentation on "Making the Case for America's State Parks" at the National Trust for Historic Preservation national conference, October 19-22, in Buffalo. The national system of more than 6,600 state parks is an incredible resource but under escalating budget pressure.

Do you know which is the oldest state park in the nation? Our own Niagara Falls State Park, protected in 1883 by then-Governor Grover Cleveland.

Niagara Falls State Park is the oldest of the 6,600 state park units nationwide. It was protected in 1883 by then-Governor Grover Cleveland.

Celebrating Erie Canalway Trail End-to-Enders

Parks & Trails New York, in conjunction with the NYS Canal Corporation and the Erie Canalway National Heritage Corridor, has launched a new program that allows everyone who bikes and/or walks the entire Erie Canalway Trail between Buffalo and Albany to join the Erie Canalway Trail End-to-Enders Honor Roll and receive a certificate and decal identifying them as official Erie Canalway Trail End-to-Enders. The journey can be completed either as one through trip or in segments over a period of time. Check our website for more information.

PTNY testifies at Assembly tourism hearing

PTNY was invited to testify at a recent hearing held by the Assembly Committee on Tourism, Parks, Arts, and Sports Development. Our testimony, available on the PTNY website, stressed the economic benefits of parks and trails and the need for creative solutions to support the state park system, including more support for Friends groups.

Close the Gaps Campaign

Second annual progress report released

The Canalway Trails Association New York (CTANY), in collaboration with Parks & Trails New York (PTNY), has released its second annual Closing the Gaps: A Progress Report on the Erie Canalway Trail 2011. The report summarizes the status of efforts to complete the trail and outlines the efforts that CTANY and PTNY intend to undertake during 2012.

With 270 miles now open to the public, the 365-mile Erie Canalway Trail is 75% complete and on its way to becoming a premiere tourist destination for cyclists and other outdoor enthusiasts. However, the Erie Canalway Trail can neither realize its full potential as a world-class tourism destination nor offer maximum benefit to the more than 200 communities along its length until it is finished from Buffalo to Albany as a continuous off-road trail.

Although no new trail was built in 2011, significant progress was made in efforts to close the remaining trail gaps.

Dramatic increase in state, local and regional support

Interest in completing the Erie Canalway Trail among citizens, community leaders, and elected officials at all levels of local, state and federal government was at an all-time high. The campaign to "Close the Gaps," initiated by Senator Kirsten Gillibrand in the fall of 2010 with a roundtable in Canajoharie, drew more than 200 persons to additional roundtables in 2011 in Syracuse, Lockport, Utica, and Clyde. Each roundtable has spawned local follow up meetings and a number of working groups focused on discovering "out of the box" solutions to the unique challenges associated with discrete segments within the larger trail gaps.

Progress on identifying a route through Syracuse

The Syracuse Metropolitan Transportation Council (SMTC) agreed to complete the Erie Canalway Trail - Syracuse Connector Route project to explore options for a safe and well-marked 12-mile route for the trail between Camillus and Dewitt through the City of Syracuse. The project will be completed by SMTC staff on behalf of the City, with input from SMTC member agencies, other stakeholders, and the general public. SMTC has allocated $30,000 toward this effort. Presently, cyclists must negotiate heavily travelled, unmarked urban streets.

Two "Close the Gaps" efforts receive NYS Canal Corporation grants

The City of Rome received a $50,000 Canal Corporation grant to construct an additional two miles of on- and off-road trail between Old Erie Canal State Park and the Muck Road parking area.

Completion of this trail section along with the two-mile section already under development within the City will result in more than 50 miles of continuous trail from Dewitt to Utica.

Schenectady County was awarded $140,000 toward construction of 1.3 miles of trail as part of a major private-public waterfront development at the site of the former American Locomotive Company in the City of Schenectady. When complete, almost all the trail will be off-road within the city limits.

Focus for 2012

In the coming year, CTANY and PTNY will continue to seek the support of Senator Gillibrand's office for completing the five major trail gaps, work with Canalway Trail communities and all levels of government to assist their efforts to close the gaps, and communicate the importance of the Canalway Trail to supporting tourism and local economies and improving the health and the quality of life of Canalway Trail community residents.

Closing the Gaps: a Progress Report on the Erie Canalway Trail is available on the Parks & Trails New York website (www.ptny.org).

"The benefits from completion of the Erie Canalway Trail will be significant, including more transportation choices and health benefits from active transportation."

Erie Canalway Trail End-to-Enders celebrated

Traveling the full length of the 365-mile Erie Canalway Trail is a significant accomplishment, but until now no formal means existed for End-to-Enders to receive recognition for this major achievement. Parks & Trails New York, in conjunction with the NYS Canal Corporation and the Erie Canalway National Heritage Corridor, has launched a new program that recognizes anyone who has completed a journey along the entire Erie Canalway Trail. The journey can be completed on bicycle and/or on foot and either in one multi-day trip or in segments over time. End-to-Enders will receive a certificate, decal, and inclusion in the Erie Canalway Trail End-to-Enders Honor Roll.

Registration as an End-to-Enders can be accomplished from the Parks & Trails New York website, www.ptny.org. Parks & Trails New York will distribute decals and certificates and maintain the End to Enders Honor Roll on its website.

"We are excited to provide a means to formally recognize the increasing number of people who complete this amazing adventure through the history and beauty of New York State," said Robin Dropkin, Executive Director of Parks & Trails New York. "We not only want people to register, but we also encourage them to share stories and photos of their adventure and give us feedback on how to improve the experience." Contact PTNY at endoenders@ptny.org and add your images on PTNY's Flickr site.

You did it! Register as an End-to-Enders today.

Thousands of volunteers turn out for Canal Clean Sweep

Despite variable weather, almost 3,000 volunteers from 154 community organizations, service groups, municipalities, and businesses joined in one of the more than 100 local clean-up activities in Canal parks, along public promenades and on Canalway Trail segments as part of the eighth annual Canal Clean Sweep. Each year Canal Clean Sweep engages communities, not-for-profit organizations and volunteers in cleanup and beautification activities along the Canal System and the Canalway Trail in preparation for the upcoming navigation season on the New York State Canal System. The New York State Canal Corporation partnered with Parks & Trails New York, and the New York State Environmental Facilities Corporation (EFC) to sponsor the Clean Sweep event.

Canal Corporation Director Brian U. Stratton and Matthew Driscoll, president and CEO of the Environmental Facilities Corporation, officially launched the start of the eighth annual Canal Clean Sweep at an event in Camillus. Representatives from Parks & Trails New York and the Camillus Erie Canal Park were also on hand to join the festivities.

Director Stratton said, "With over 100 grassroots events taking place along our Canal system, the Canal Clean Sweep is evidence of just how integral our Canals are to the fabric of Upstate New York and to each of these Canal communities. These events, each of them a labor of love, reflect the collective pride in community, appreciation of heritage and sense of place that is such a fitting legacy of Governor DeWitt Clinton."

Robin Dropkin, executive director of Parks & Trails New York, said, "We are thrilled to see the tremendous response from Adopt-a-Trail groups, businesses, civic organizations, student groups, and other volunteers. The growth of this event shows that local pride in the Canal and Canalway Trail is high and the spirit of volunteerism is alive and well across the state."

President Driscoll said, "The New York State Environmental Facilities Corporation finances water quality projects all across New York State. We are proud to partner with the Canal Corporation and Parks & Trails New York to promote the Seventh Annual Canal Clean Sweep in honor of Earth Day. With the help of volunteers all along the Canal, Clean Sweep helps preserve the beauty and water quality of this historic waterway."

The Camillus event also featured volunteers from the Camillus Erie Canal Park and Siemens Corporation who cleared brush and debris from the nearby historic Carpenters Brook Waste Weir along the Old Erie Canal.

Mickey Farrell, operations manager of Siemens Corporation said, "The Siemens Building Technologies employees in upstate New York, along with our Siemens Caring Hands Foundation are very excited to support the efforts of the Canal Clean Sweep project. We are very much aware of the importance of the canals to our local communities and our New York State history. This is our third straight year providing support to various initiatives of the Canal and the Canalway Trail systems. The Siemens employee volunteers and their family members are excited to partner with all organizations supporting this great cause."

For more on Clean Sweep, see page four or go to www.ptny.org/canalway for a full listing of reports and photos from the event.

Canal Corporation Director Brian U. Stratton (left) visited several Canal Clean Sweep events, including Waterford where Historical Museum and Cultural Center volunteers cleaned the area around Lock #4 on the Old Champlain Canal.

Historic Erie Canal Lock 19 footbridge opened in Clifton Park

Project initiated as 2012 Canal Clean Sweep event

Clifton Park town officials joined the Chamber of Southern Saratoga County and community partners to officially open the Historic Lock 19 Footbridge on Monday, April 29. The new bridge, built with help from several local companies and students from Shenendehowa High School, offers the public the first access between the lock's dual chambers in many years.

The footbridge was built at no expense to taxpayers. Volunteer engineers, contractors, chamber officials and students all donated their time and resources to make the project possible. Significant cleaning and clearing of brush was completed before the project was even possible.

"The new Historic Lock 19 Footbridge provides unprecedented public access to an important part of Clifton Park's heritage," Town Supervisor Phil Barrett said. "Clifton Park is fortunate to have an active chamber, many dedicated volunteers and local companies who are committed to improving our community. The Town Board thanks everyone who worked to bring this project to fruition."

The project started in April 2012 as part of Canal Clean Sweep events. Once volunteers cleared overgrown brush from the Lock 19 area, 80 Shenendehowa high school students worked under the supervision of professional engineers to design, construct and promote the footbridge. Construction was completed late last year.

Douglas Ford, the 2012 chairman of the chamber's Board of Directors, was an integral part of the project. Ford is the Director of Sales and Operations at Curtis Lumber, which donated the majority of the materials used on the bridge.

"It was a privilege to work with our business partners, students and Supervisor Barrett's Town Hall team to make a real tangible difference right here in our community," said Chamber of Southern

Saratoga President and CEO Pete Bardunias. "This public-private partnership is unique in our Chamber's history and is something that should form a template for similar activity in the years ahead."

More than 1,700 volunteer hours and tens of thousands of dollars worth of donated material and labor went into the project. Community partners included: Turner Construction, Curtis Lumber, Momenive Performance Materials, SMRT Architects and Engineers, GE Power and Water, William J. Keller and Sons Construction, AJS Masonry, Shenendehowa Central Schools, Gil Van Guilder Land Surveyors, Siena Fence Company, County Waste, Trex, Legacy Timber Frames and the New York State Canal Corporation.

Historic Lock 19, located in the Vischer Ferry Nature Preserve, was part of the 1842 enlarging of the Erie Canal. Public access to the lock is via a trail at the end of Ferry Drive.

Many community partners contributed to the construction of a wooden bridge providing public access to historic Erie Canal Lock 19.

Help complete the Erie Canalway Trail – Support Parks & Trails New York today!

Dear Friend,

I'm pleased to send you a copy of Parks & Trails New York's Cycling the Erie Canal guidebook.

I hope you'll soon have the chance to experience the trail and the historic communities along it. We invite you to use the enclosed Bicyclists Bring Business cards to identify yourself when you stop by local businesses to help highlight the economic impact of Canalway Trail visitors.

While the Erie Canalway Trail is a fantastic resource, it could be even better if it were a totally continuous off-road path between Albany and Buffalo. That's why we launched our campaign to "Close the Gaps" in the trail. We're making great progress, including enlisting the support of U.S. Senator Kirsten Gillibrand. You can learn more in our annual "Closing the Gaps" report, available on our website at www.ptny.org.

Won't you help us "Close the Gaps" in the trail and advance trail and bicycle tourism by joining or donating to Parks & Trails New York today? Use the enclosed envelope or donate securely online at www.ptny.org/donate.

With many thanks,

Robin Dropkin
Executive Director

P.S. If the guidebook inspires you to complete a journey along the entire Erie Canalway Trail between Albany and Buffalo, we want to recognize your achievement! Whether you travel by bike or on foot, in one through trip or several shorter trips, you will qualify as an Erie Canalway Trail End-to-Ender and receive a certificate, a decal for your car, and inclusion on the End-to-End Honor Roll. 2013 we took a 108 mile detour to see Letchworth State Park.....it was awesome. New Yorkers were the friendliest, most helpful folks we have encountered in our journeys.

What did you enjoy most about your journey? This can be a specific activity, such as visiting a particular community or attraction, or more general.

We happened on the Peppermint Days festival in Lyons. What a delightful time we had enjoying the local chicken barbecue, homemade ice cream, and the slowest tractor competition. How special we were made to feel when we passed through Clyde. Their market day had a booth that was encouraging people to get out and move. We were asked to participate in the 1 mile ride/walk around town. It was in part a campaign to get the canalway/towpath paved through their area.

We found the trail way well laid out. The communities along the trail were great . Very friendly people, excellent spots to camp and for the most part food / fluids easy access able.

We enjoyed the nature & scenery.

Visiting my hometown of Medina, ny. Also the accomplishment.

Very historical, pleasant ride. I live several miles from the old James River and Kanawha Canal which was a competitor with the Erie. I've also ridden the C&O many times which is a favorite. I had never visited the Finger Lakes or small towns in that part of New York and I was pleasantly surprised. Some of the towns clearly are in bad financial shape (like Amsterdam) and I'm glad we could help contribute to the local economy through tourism.

Trail scenery, old locks, operational locks, small towns and communities, and dinning in home style restaurants, railroads.

The wonderful scenery and the locks.

The whole trip overall was amazing. I think one of the more memorable part was when I was traveling through Erie canal village it just so happened to be the weekend that they were performing live Civil war re-enactments which I have never seen before.

The small towns along the way, and the local people who live there. We were very welcome in all the places we stopped.

The section from Lockport to Lyons was my favorite

The scenery and meeting new people along the trail. Louise and I did the trip via our new tandem and enjoyed sharing the physical endeavor.

The samll towns and there residents

The parts that had trails were great. It was tough through the cities where some routes had no shoulders (Syracuse, Utica, Rome). The roads with wide shoulders, such as between Newark and Clyde were fine. Riding main streets through Frankfort to Mohawk with slow car speeds were fun. Syracuse felt like a death trap.
The lack of cars with riding on an off road trail, checking out the history (locks, culvert road)
The joy of setting daily riding goals and achieving them while riding totally self contained. The challenge of riding 360 plus miles over 6 days self contained.
The holley campsite. Ridding the trai in general.
The Holley area.
THE HISTORY, GEOGRAPHY , FRIENDSHIPS.
The history and scenery were great. The trails were very well kept and in excellent condition.
The history and scenery along the canal.
The great people
The first time (2009) I rode was a challenge to my physical fitness shortly after I retired in September 2008. The second tour (2010) was because I enjoyed the 2009 ride so much, I wanted to do it again.
The Erie Canal is a beautiful area and i enjoyed meeting people along the way to share experiences with.
The canal itself
Stopping at points of interest along the Canal Trail and meeting others along the way.
Spending time riding the towpath trails, the small town scenery as well as the challenge of completing the 360 miles in less than one week.....six days, sixty miles each day.
Riding through the old canal towns riding on paved portions and the views around Little Falls
My first thought is the people, every one we met was very nice, helpful, interested in our progress and just wonderful. I loved the history, the peace along the Canalway and the small villages. We were there during the floods and saw 1st hand the devastation it caused. Loved the West wind!!
Meeting people along the way
Meeting other cyclists along the way. One was traveling to San Francisco and others from Chicago to New Hampshire. Also, talking with locals during rest stops. Got some good tips like stopping in Pittsford, which was a lovely town.
Meeting local people and other riders from other parts of the country. Ride was very well organized, nice to see how people from the local communities helped out with meals, needs, etc.
Loved the history and the scenery along the trail and I the towns. Everyone we met was very friendly. Our favorite day however was a side trip to Letchworth State Park. WOW!!!

Lots of history, very scenic, being off-road, friendly people. Loved the museums and the lift bridges.
Learning about the history of the canals and v towns and villages along the way. The camaraderie of friends was great as this was an exciting adventure for us.
Learning about the history of the canal
It was wonderful to accomplish a goal I've had since I was a kid and see all the awesome small towns along the way, particularly little rock.
It was educational, scenic, and the participants were very friendly. I loved the leisurely pace.
I was able to combine the 50th reunion of my Tonawanda HS Class of '63 with this bike ride with 3 good friends. It was fun returning to my childhood home. It was interesting seeing the old and the new canal. We watched boats entering and leaving the locks. We were able to raise awareness and some contributions to find a cure for MS and ALS. We wore our bicycle team kits with MS and ALS printed on them and talked to people along the way.
I really enjoyed the western half of this trail. The riding surface was great and the scenery was amazing!
I loved going through the small towns and seeing areas we have passed near on the Thruway but never stopped. Met some enthusiastic people especially at the Canal Museum in Syracuse. Amazing how much we learned about the state most of us lived in all our lives but never knew. Enjoyed the locks, the yellow brick road, Herkimer Mansion, Cohoes Falls, the ride along the Hudson. Surprises along the way like the statues in Auriesville that seemed to appear out of nowhere.
I enjoyed the wildlife, riding my bike, and learning new things about the history of the Erie Canal and NYS on my journey.
I enjoyed the scenery of the canal and the trail. A lot of history for us to see along the way.
I enjoyed the many helpful people that we met along the trail. I enjoyed the time that I spent with my son travelling along the trail.
I enjoyed the landscape the people along the way and my riding partner, The best part for me was through Little Falls
I enjoyed riding with my friends and seeing places I didn't even know existed, such as Cohoes Falls and Herkimer Mansion.
I enjoyed going and seeing things on such a smaller scale. The frequent town parks, historic district in Schenectady, rock formations, etc, all things that I would have missed if drove by car.
I enjoyed exploring the canal towns and villages as I came upon them.
I enjoyed biking on an almost flat surface, even though it was almost all stones. The scenery was wonderful and I love to watch the boaters pass and waive to them. I like exploring the old locks as well and new and visiting the quaint towns and getting passport cancellation stamps at the various places in the National Heritage Corridor.

Having a safe place for a new/young rider to bike in a pleasant environment. Making memories with my son on the canal. He learned to ride his bike on the Erie Canal between the Jordan Aqueduct and the enlarged Erie Lock 51. That was the day (June 2010) we decided to complete the Erie Canal trail (total ~ 702 miles). It took us 26 biking days over the course of three years. I enjoyed visiting the local communities and learning about our history at: Erie Canal Museum, Chittenango Landing, Herkimer's Home, Naval & Military Park Museum, Herschell Carousel Factory Museum, Lockport Locks, Seneca Park Zoo, George Eastman's House, Ganondagan Historic Site, Tinker Homestead, Long Acre Farms, Alling Coverlet Museum, National Women's Hall of Fame, Sims Store, Salt Museum, Rosamond Gifford Zoo, TDRs Inaugural site, Fort Stanwick, Capitol Building, Little Falls Polish Festival, Half Moon, Fort Klock, Cohoes Falls Overlook, Peebles Island State Park, Schuyler Mansion, Crailo, USS Sullivan, Oriskany Battlefield, Wood Creek, NYS Museum, and Strong Museum of Play. Also enjoyed the art museums Munson Williams Proctor & Everson. NY has some very interesting history and standing in those places makes it personal, more understandable, memorable. I learned something new at each place we visited and hope my son did as well. If you like American history, NY is the place to visit. We enjoyed having lunch at the local diners and restaurants to refuel before heading back on our bikes to the car. Getting some badly needed exercise. Cycling the Erie Canal Guide Book is a wonderful and invaluable resource to use while riding the trail. It was once a clean, stiff fresh copy right out of the envelop and has been "well loved" as it is frayed, creased, missing the back cover, and written in. :) I wouldn't part with it. Thank you.

Great accommodations, scenery, people

Getting a historical perspective of the Erie Canal, its engineering marvel, and impact on transportation.

Finding local places to eat at the end of each day.

Especially enjoyed 1) all the small towns and farms across upstate NY; 2) history seen in traces of the original canal seen along the way; 3) safe travel on the trail and lightly traveled roads; 4) physical challenge of completing trail end to end in six riding days: Buffalo to Spencerport (80 miles): July 15, 2012 Clyde-Seneca Falls Loop (40 miles): July 30, 2012 Spencerport to Port Byron (75 miles): Aug 4, 2012 Canastota to Port Byron (52 miles): Sep 3, 2012 Canastota to Fort Plain (81 miles): Aug 13, 2013 Fort Plain to Albany (81 miles): Aug 14, 2013

Enjoyed the Well maintained trails, the beautiful scenery, and the History of the Canal

Enjoyed the challenge of riding the complete trail, the many small towns along the way, the natives we met, and the companionship of the group.

1) Opportunity to see & explore areas across the entire NYS 2) Learning about the Erie Canal, it's heritage, &

1- The residents of Central NY 2- No cars 3- Museum in Rome 4- Small quaint eateries and restaurants along the way, ie: Muddy Waters in Palmira, Canal Marina in Utica, the restaurant at the end of trail in Amsterdam .

What suggestions do you have for improving the trail experience (trail conditions, signage, services, etc.)

You could start with an attitude change and realize you are sitting on a gold mine. Other than Holley there were no facilities completely set aside for cyclist. Where there was camping, there were no showers or restrooms. Additionally, food on other days were miles from the camping areas. You should ride the Montour/GAP from Pittsburgh to Cumberland and see how they have approached a long distance enhanced trail and how local business caters to the cyclist dollars. I had the opportunity to speak with several locals along the way. I was shocked at their we don't care attitude about work and catering to tourist.

WORK ON URBAN AREAS

We strongly recommend more sleeping, specially camping opportunities along the trail.

way too much on road mileage which was poorly marked. The canal guide did not really go into much detail about all the road mileage. This is important to know for folks with heavy panniers as much of this road mileage was hilly. The Genesee Valley Greenway was not at all suitable for anything other than a trail or mountain bike. Also, there are very few bathrooms along the trail and it is awkward to go into an establishment in a small town just to use the bathroom.

Uncle Al does thing very well. Additionally, regulars like Amy Pedlow, are always around to offer assistance. Great group of people connected to this ride!

Too much riding on the roads, especially through Syracuse and Utica

There were definitely some gaps in signage, especially in the more urban areas, which made navigation troublesome from time-to-time.

The trail was difficult to find in spots, especially in the cities of Buffalo (construction) and in Syracuse (abysmal, need to find a better way to get through the city). Signage varied from section to section along the route. Needs to have more signs and signs need to be more prominent. There were pink trail markings painted on the road that I believe were left from your sponsored July trip. These were immensely helpful in verifying which fork to take at several junctures during the trip.

The trail just west of Rome is in bad shape and very lacking in signage. Much of the signage is severely faded.

The trail is very, very badly marked. The guidebook is almost worthless. New York could do a lot to improve the experience with better trail marking and better maps. The guidebook is particularly disappointing for what it cost. Try having someone who has actually navigated the trail do the book instead of a graphic artist. If it weren't for the paint markings on the roadway left over from the July ride, I would probably still be in Syracuse.

The trail is marked but I believe that more signage is needed at certain points. The Syracuse area was very confusing

The section through Syracuse and Solvay were not marked at all. Using the guide book and my own local knowledge made it fine.

The ride down Bleacher St. in Utica was not pleasant and the narrow roads with cars parked on both sides in Watervliet was a challenge. Syracuse area with crossing the busy streets and so many miles off trails was probably the least enjoyable stretch of the trip. I would strongly suggest that villages near the canal trail post signs where the trail crosses a road indicating direction and mileage to their village. Some didn't even have street names. Fortunately we had iPhones! Also the trail through Rome once we got to Fort Stanwix was not well marked but the rest of the trail it was great to have the circle/arrow directions. One other area in Amsterdam up a hill had a fork and direction there was unclear. I heartily thank those who paint the circles - saved us many times! We did our trip in 5 stages, going home at night except for the Little Falls/Albany leg. It would have been great and certainly would encourage more to do it if Amtrak had a bike roll on service along the Erie Canal corridor. Our first few legs we had a SAG driver but the last one, I drove to Albany/Rens. Amtrak station, took the train back to Rochester, left with the 2 friends the next morning and parked her car in Little Falls, biked to Schenectady for the night and on to Albany the next day, put bikes on my car and picked up the other car in Little Falls. Would have been so much easier to roll the bikes on.

The logos on the ground from the summer bike tour (we went in the fall) were great helps along the way. They were confusing when they led to a campsite for the tour. It would be very useful to let riders not on the bike tour know when they are on the main route versus going off (to Seneca Falls?) for the campsite. The spray paint logos could be useful to riders throughout the year.

The first day we biked from Wendelville to Buffalo, so we could get used to our bikes. Lost the Trail as the markings were not clear to us. The next day we were dropped off at Wendelville and went direction Albany. There were areas we were not sure but we had an iPhone that helped a lot. Was surprised we saw very few people on the Trail.

Syracuse--what a mess. There was very little direction on finding our way through. We were ever so grateful for the guidebook and downloaded route from a previous end to ender. We also would like to encourage you to help the small community of Clyde to complete the short section of the canalway in their area. We rode the grass section, as difficult as it was, because we wanted to support them in their efforts.

Starting the trail in Buffalo was extremely difficult. There was no signage, and there was no way to know if you were on the right path until Tonawanda. Also we would have had a hard time following the road sections if we were not cycling one day behind the tour. Restroom facilities, water fountains and mile markers would have been great as well.

Signage was decent but I kept getting off trail in cities. I depended on Google and GPS for these areas. The painted arrows depicting the turns on the roads that were part of the trail were very helpful. I assume these were put down for your "Cycling the Erie Canal" guided bicycle ride.

Signage to hotels, B&Bs, and bicycle shops for those not using smart phone.

Signage thru Syracuse is terrible! Signage for leaving Utica also terrible. The repairs of the trail from the spring floods is terrible; the material used was like beach sand! Signage for restaurants in small towns would be very helpful. Also signage for distance from trail to towns/villages would be helpful. Also, please make drinking water and restrooms available at all locks and lift bridges - like Pittsford lock 33 and 32.

Signage in the cities, such as Syracuse, Rome. Improve quality of trail in Rochester; tree roots make for VERY bumpy and unsafe ride between Genesee River and East Henrietta road underpass. Provide drinking water and restrooms at locks.

Signage if not for the road marks for the tour that is taken every year the signage was not very helpful. The guild worked well, but in some cases it was very lacking. Two spots on the trail were not accessible.

Restroom facilities along the route

Please, please get AMTRAC to allow bikes on the train. It was difficult for us to arrange logistics as we tackled the route in sections.
Please pave more of the trail. Some of the stone sections were in need of repair. The signs were overall good, I liked the painted markings on the road. Some of those markings need to be touched up very hard to see.
pave the entire length, better up keep on portions
None
More trail on the working canal - old canal sections not as interesting and not appealing visually.
More tents sites along the way with showers. better directions through the bigger cities. One of the cities had turn by turn directions, you should do this for each city. have the restrooms open in the parks that you pass near, to be able to get water
More signs and better warnings of detours. Maps that show how to use Bike Route 5 to parallel the Canalway.
More restrooms along the route
More paved trail. It would be great if there was an informational area near the towns and villages that would highlight offerings such as hotels, bed & breakfast, or restaurants. adding/connecting trails for less road time.
More paved sections and less stone dust. The stone dust areas we sometimes almost impassable after a night rain. Mostly the signs were good, but 2 times during construction areas we almost ended up on the I 90.
More completed sections of trail
More clarity in signage at trail end with information on how to get to the next section of the trail. Also in Buffalo it was not clear where the trail started.
More biker campsites. Better signage. More potable water along trail.
Mile marker signs at regular intervals along trail.
Keep up "tippy" as we named him--- the white trail markers are invaluable, especially in the towns/cities. Demand that NY allow bikes on the trains- without boxes. At the end, when we did not have a sag driver, one of us needed to take a car to the end point, then take a train back the day prior to riding so we had transportation at the end point. If we could have taken the bikes on the trains, we would have saved money in gas and time for a train ride. For example, my friend took drove her car to Utica and took the train home. The next day we drove my car to our starting point (in this case Green lakes), and then we had her car at the end. It would have been so much easier to drive my car to Syracuse train station, ride to the canal to Utica and take the train, with our bikes, back to Syracuse. Because, the following weekend, we had to do the same scenario but this time she drove all the way to Albany and took the train home the day before. Bikes need to be allowed on the trains to make it easier and more practical for NY residents and tourists to visit this area and explore.
I'm surprised to say so, but the majority of the paved sections of the trail were frost-heaved and inferior to the stone dust.

I'd like to see the off road sections of trail completed, especially between Newark and Weedsport, and if possible between Utica and Little Falls. The waterfront amenities along the canal are wonderfully done. I'd like to suggest bike lockers in urban areas such as Albany as we had our bikes vandalized, someone put a knife through our 4 tires & tubes which delayed our early start leaving us to bike in some oppressive heat. Plus it was an extra $200 for new equipment. However all was not lost as we found a public park adjacent to the trail in Cohoes/Green Island. It had a public sprinkler; which was a delightful way for an 11 year old to cool off. Better signage on road sections in Buffalo, Syracuse, Rome and Utica. The Katherine Valley Trail has swimming holes along the trail; which are a marvelous ways to cool off in the summer. That would be a bonus as there were times when my son took off his shoes and waded into the streams exploring the environment. Provide bike racks on all buses/public transportation to assure that a bike can be brought on the bus. If one could avoid boxing a bike on Amtrak, that would be an added bonus. (I'm not sure what their policy is.) Maybe tie in some consistently themed geocaching at key locations along the trail to break up the bike trip and provide some interesting stopping points. Seaway Trail has a great geocache program with geocoins and punch books... it might be another marketing avenue. Along I-90 there seemed to be a stretch without shade and it might be refreshing to plant some trees to break up that section. It was somewhere between Little Falls and Albany (sorry that's not very helpful).

I would suggest paving the trails. Also, move the on road trails to off road.

I would love to see this trail 1005 completed!

I understand 360 miles is a long way to manage a trail crossing the state. I would suggest some extra vegetation management in certain areas to expose a few more views either to the old canal or other feature vistas.

I hope someday the trail will be more complete. The sections from Little Falls to Utica and Fort Byron to Newark was too much highways and high speed traffic areas. It seemed like from Clyde to Newark there was some trails that followed the canal but they were broken and hard to follow without proper signs or directions.

Hopefully you will complete the whole trail some day. The trail was maintained better in some areas than in others. Riding along the new canal was more pleasant than along the old unused canal. Riding on the canal trail was more enjoyable than riding on the streets.

Getting through Syracuse was totally confusing. Signage was spotty and map directions were not detailed enough. Also, some missing signs and a few missing markings on the road

Completing the trail would be excellent. Being out on the roads at times was a nice change of pace, but having the option to stay on trails is always welcome. Could always use more campsites.

Blacktop the trail and add more miles to it. More camping spots at the locks

Better Trail signage through urban or roadway areas.
Better signage - there were a couple directions in the guide book that didn't make sense and it took quite a while to wind our way around to find another Canalway sign . I think it will be much better when the entire trail is complete and there won't be so much riding on roads.
Better signage
Better signage
Better and more frequent signage.
At that time the signs were a little sparse and their was still a lot of gaps in the trail.
1. Navigation through Buffalo and especially Syracuse is a problem. Guidebook maps don't show enough detail and painted marks on road from Canal Tour frequently deviate from route shown in Guidebook or interactive map. 2. Strongly recommend having Cue Sheets for each major segment of the route (e.g., Buffalo to Medina, Medina to Pittsford, etc.). Have online in PDF format for download and printing. Cyclists are used to using cue sheets for navigation. Cue sheets can be easily updated for changing trail conditions and route detours, e.g., the June flood in the Fort Plain vicinity. 3. Mobile interactive map is mostly great. But, on iPhone5, once you click GPS to locate position on map, you cannot zoom out or scroll the map to see route beyond the immediate location. Also, no easy way to determine distances between towns, etc. (It does work to go to Google maps and use driving directions for bicycles.) 4. Please lobby Amtrak to allow roll-on boarding of bicycles on all the trains across upstate NY. We used the train for our return to Rochester from Albany. There was only one baggage car train per day and we had to box our bikes. If it were easier to do, I would gladly repeat the canal path over several weekends by using rail to get to and from distant sections of the route.
1) Bathrooms!! Bathrooms!! Bathrooms!! Or at least a consistent way to know how to plan ahead. The smallest of towns would have lovely (unexpected) facilities while a major town would have absolutely nothing so you never knew if the next bathroom was 5 miles or 50 miles away. 2) Keep up the good work extending the existing trails and hopefully promoting the Erie Canal in some of the smaller towns. There were some obviously poorer communities that were just letting this potential tourism resource go to waste. 3) Adding Cross road signage in some of the central NY sections. It was difficult to know where you were along the trail without cross road names as a point of reference. Other sections did a great job in this area!
1- Signage 2- Clear beginning and end markers 3- Transportation for bicycles. This really should be number 1, and a must. NY trail is competing with trails all over the world and not everyone has a family member who can shuttle you from end to end 4- Buffalo needs help. We did the first 20 miles into Buffalo and suddenly encountered a locked gate. We did the rest of the trail from the point where we left to Buffalo and went east
Do you have any other comments?
What a great tourist attraction the trail is, but New York needs much better maps and guidebooks.

We were looking forward to the museum in Rome since that's where they first started digging the canal. We got there on a Sunday but planned to visit the museum Monday morning before hitting the trail. The museum was closed on Monday and Tuesday - very disappointing.
We were hoping to see more bike shops long the way but they were far. Few close to the trails.
We had a fantastic time!
Very nice and helpful local people there.
Very happy I completed the Erie Canal. Some talk negatively about riding on stone dust trails but it was very easy. From Schenectady eastward the trail changes between wide paved, wide stonedust, narrow stonedust, and narrow singletrack dirt. Almost all trails were marked where they crossed roads, which is good. The maps in the PTNY "Cycling the Erie Canal" guidebook could have been a bit more detailed, I wouldn't have gotten off trail quite so much.
Thoroughly enjoyed the ride
This was an outstanding experience and I will do the entire ride again when the trail is completed! I know am interested in looking into kayaking parts of the canal.
This was a very enjoyable ride. I would do this ride again without even thinking about it. Thank you to all who have worked so hard to make the trail what it is today. Keep up the good work and I am looking forward to see the improvements you make.
The trip was amazing and a great adventure. Once the trails are complete in the future I will go back to the completed sections I missed. Work is needed for the cities where there are four lanes of traffic with curbs but no sidewalks or shoulders. It felt very dangerous and was the least enjoyable part of the trip.
The idea of the trail is great and it is very well carried out.
The Halcyon Bed and Breakfast was nice but was a hell to get to.....it should not be included as a bicycle destination unless there is automobile support for the rider. We had to go up 6 miles of hill after an 84 mile day to get to it!
The guidebook is fantastic!
Thank you for the work you do. This is an invaluable resource we have in NY.
So happy I finally did it Downtube Bicycles in Albany was great. Would recommend. We rented our bicycles there Signage is inconsistent and lacking in places. More campsites are needed the c & o is a good model. There are many places where only water would be needed to use as a campsite.
PTNY does an outstanding job of making the trails great and now the villages along the way could do a lot to make the ride more enjoyable. Thank you!
Overall we were thrilled with our trip. Including our side trip to Letchworth we cycled 550 miles in 8 days. This was our longest, hardest journey. We were very impressed with New York. The cycling guidebook could be better if it gave actual mileage from town to town, trail section, road section etc. each day's mileage was much greater than expected because the book was not clear. Finally, our last night's stay was at the Halcyon Farm B and B outside Amsterdam. While this is a lovely place, it is not realistic as a cycling stop. It is 8 miles from town on one end, and 5 miles from the trail on the other...up a HUGE hill! When you are toting your own gear after a long day, this was too much! If you include it in the guidebook, you should warn cyclists of the location and how remote it is from town/ dining facilities.
Over all, I had a fantastic week. Thanks.
Over all it was a great trip. I look forward to doing it again in better weather so is I can camp along the trail and hopefully continue down the Hudson Valley into NYC.
One of my favorite places to bike! Have yet to canoe on it.

My wife Louise and I did the trip on our new tandem (Co-Motion Speedster with another tandem couple, Joe and Diana Sack. Overall we had a great trip with cooperative weather. The trail was a lot of fun and enjoyable throughout. We averaged about 45 miles a day and were able to meet our goals each day with only minor delays for weather. During the trip we had issues with our front disc brake and our friends' front STI shifter. Kudos to the bike shops in Towanda, Syracuse and Schenectady who took us in under their wing, dealt with our problems and sent us on our way with barely a hitch. A great bunch of folks. I would recommend the trip to any who ask.
Martin at the trail office was a great help. Prior to heading out I contacted the trail office in Albany and spoke to Martin. He provided some great information about the trip. We enjoyed everything about the trail, people we met and the trip overall.
Make the interactive map into a .gpx file so it can be loaded onto a GPS Loved my trip!
Keep up the great work!
It was a most delightful ride. We were fortunate enough to miss the rains that caused the flooding in the east and lucky that our journey came to an end as the scorching heat hit the area. We enjoyed spending time with our hosts at the B&Bs and learning a bit of history.
I would suggest that you add a turn-by-turn description in the trail book to help people get through Syracuse.
I will never regret this amazing experience and will recommend it to anyone I think will enjoy such beauty. Thank you for this trail and keeping New York a great place to live.
I really enjoyed the 10 days that my dad and I spent on the trail and wanted to go further down into New York City. Maybe next year?
I hope to do the organized tour in the future and take enough time to visit more of the historical sites, museums, etc.
I can remember a dinner conversation with my father about 25 years ago about biking the Erie Canal and that we should do that.... although he didn't go with us, my son and I were able to embark on the adventure. It was a very rewarding experience and I'm very glad we did it. We did not visit all those points of interest on our biking days but tied in our visits along the Canal during the hockey season, or when we were geocaching or during our AVA walks or on a day trip or camping trip. We plan to revisit the communities along the Canal to revisit some of the sites and visit some we missed... and some day(s) we look forward to cycling the Hudson Valley. Thank you!
Having the bikers camp with fridge, water, showers was the perfect ending to my trip! It was so cool that they have that built.
Have a place to store bicycles and gear a couple of days before the ride for convenience. I enjoyed the opportunity to stay at Buf State the day before the ride. Is it possible that we can stay two days before the ride?
Had a great time!
Getting through Syracuse was most difficult because of the lack of signs or arrows. Better signage, we spent much too much time being lost
Complete the trail. Riding the roads in the central and eastern ends of the trail is dangerous.
Biking this trail was a great experience! I would do it again in a heartbeat

Congratulations to our thousandth Erie Canalway Trail End-to-Ender

Posted on September 13, 2013 by M. Daley

William and Nancy Moses of Midland Park, New Jersey made the most of their summer by bicycling from Niagara Falls to Albany along the Erie Canalway Trail and then through Hudson Valley all the way home! They used their 13-day, 560-mile trip at the end of June to train for their fourth Pennsylvania Perimeter Ride Against Cancer in July in honor of their son Jason, a cancer survivor.

William, who is retired and bicycles every day, came across the Canalway Trail when looking online for bicycle trails.

A $25 LL Bean Gift Card and congratulatory letter are on their way to William and Nancy

William and Nancy set out on their Trek hybrid bikes, complete with gear in their rear panniers, stopping in small towns along the trail, eating at local restaurants, and staying in area hotels. What the pair most enjoyed about their trip was the people they met. For achieving the milestone of becoming our thousandth registered End-to-Ender, the Moses family will receive an LL Bean gift card. Congratulations Bill and Nancy!

Have you traveled the length of the Erie Canalway Trail? If so, register as an End-to-Ender today!
