

New Yorkers Show their Mettle in Successful Canal Clean Sweep

On the designated weekend for the 6th annual Canal Clean Sweep (4/16 – 4/17), rain fell across the western half of the state. Farther east the rain held off, but cold temperatures predominated. Nevertheless, most of the more than 90 groups participating in the annual “spring cleaning” of the NYS Canal Corridor and the Canalway Trail went ahead as planned. As one volunteer in North Tonawanda said, “Why waste a good day doing this? Now when good weather comes we can enjoy a clean area.” A few groups postponed their events for a day or a week. One event did its clean-up event a day early after checking the forecast!
